

A 4x2 grid of eight apples, each showing a different color variation or lighting effect, likely representing different image processing or compression results. The apples are arranged in two columns and four rows. The colors range from bright red to yellow-green, with some showing a mix of red and yellow. The lighting appears to come from the top, creating highlights on the upper parts of the apples and shadows on the lower parts. The background is a solid light gray.